A la nanita nana  Murmuring a Lullaby Level: Medium Easy (JWP) Length: Available for SmartMusic:	Traditional Mexican Folk Song	Eddleman, David	3-Part Mixed	Carl Fischer  Pub. No.: CM8303 Pub. Date: 2003	113	C-2774
A beautiful new version of a Carl Fischer best seller, this 3-part arrangement, by the composer, of A la nanita nana is sure to duplicate the success of the original 2-part title. An enchantingly soulful tune is set simply with a sensitively wrought piano part that will touch the audience at any holiday concert. The piece can be sung (as here) in Spanish or in David Eddleman's own idiomatic English translation. (Pub) ----- This Mexican folk song is instantly recognizable with gentle Latin rhythms and a peaceful tenderness. Fluid vocal lines sing over a nicely characteristic piano accompaniment that is reminiscent of a Spanish guitar. Sing this in Spanish or English for a lovely sacred moment or multicultural feature in your December concert. Highly recommended! (JWP)

Advance Democracy is a piece of unabashed political propaganda commissioned by the London Co-operative Society. At a time of great anxiety in Europe and on the eve of the second World War, this poem by Randall Swingle paints a dark picture of the threat of dictatorship if democracy doesn't 'rise up and cry that what our fathers fought for well not allow to die'. It is a strange piece and its overtly political message makes it quite difficult to programme except as a curiosity. Britten, however, paints a very clever picture with a long legato line moving constantly through the texture from soprano to bass and back much in the manner which he had used in The Three Kings in A Boy was Born. Around this swirling figure the other parts sing sharply punctuated chords which are full of menace. The final section moves into the major (Britten's brightly flag-waving C major) and the ending is forcefully emphatic.

The best way to perform this piece is to take the words at face value and sing them as Swingle intended, with passion and involvement taking care to really follow Britten's careful performance instructions as to articulation and dynamics. (Pub)

The title of Ain't That News is a tribute to the superb Staple Singers, who sang a piece by that name, not otherwise quoted in this chart. The opening seven measures are an adaptation of an old Paul Robeson 78. The rest of the piece is original material intended to pay homage to both the black church and black popo music, just one of the many genres that owes its soul to the spiritual. The composer states, "My goal is to allow even the most demure chorister to have at least a little taste of what it would be like to be Aretha Franklin." (Pub)

Throughout American history, music has played an integral role in our country's expression of patriotism. Music, specifically song, has long provided an extensive repertoire of poetic lyrics and musical themes which has served to inspire a wide range of national emotions. The true potential of our patriotic songs, however, was perhaps never before so fully realized as after the tragic events of September 11, 2001. From the significance of that day, American's collective singing voice gave way to a newly elevated presence for these patriotic songs, a presence that comforted, unified and enriched a nation in need. An American Anthem is written with the intention of further enhancing this new presence for the patriotic standards, America the Beautiful and The Star Spangled Banner. By slightly changing the musical parameters and creating musical commonality between the two works, An American Anthem attempts to achieve a unity in song, similar to that of a nation brought together as never before. - Allan E. The text of "Ave Generosa" is an erasure text created by the composer: a secular vision of a text by Hildegard of Bingen in praise of womanhood. This lush, flowing piece can be performed with either harp or piano. "Ave Generosa" was commissioned by and is dedicated to WomenSing (Martín Benvenuto, Artistic Director) on the occasion of its 50th anniversary. (Pub)

				Pub. No.: 17159 / M051481705 / HL48021286
				Pub. Date: 1952

This work had a curious genesis. Britten's stance as a conscientious objector in World War II is well known but his sympathies for those caught up in its ramifications were as deeply felt as anyone's. Written in the middle of the war years, this ballad was composed 'For Richard Wood and the musicians of Oflag VIIb - Germany'. Wood had organised a music festival at this officers' POW camp at Eichstätt, Bavaria between February and March 1943 and Britten's work was performed at seven of the concerts. The story tells of an unfaithful wife and her lover (Lady Barnard and little Musgrave) being discovered in flagrante delicto and murdered by the cheated husband, Lord Barnard. The music is wonderfully descriptive of the tale beginning with a plodding piano part and the prosaic opening of the tale. As the baritones and then the tenors join the fray, so intensity grows as the liaison between the two lovers is laid bare. A 'little tiny page' - Lady Barnard's footman - overhears the assignation made between the two, and he dashes off to spill the beans to his master who hastens to catch them red-handed. Musgrave thinks he hears Lord Barnard's hunting horn urging his horses to speed on. His mistress, however, encourages him to lie longer, thinking it is just a shepherd's horn. And so the die is cast. The ending is a moving slow threnody as Barnard laments the death of his wife, urging the gravediggers to put her on top of Musgrave as 'she comes from nobler kin'.

This is a wonderfully dramatic work which will be well within the capabilities of most reasonable choirs. It needs a group of singers who can sustain long-ish lines in the slower passages, and counter a possible tendency to flatness in these sections as well. Care should be taken over the balance between the three parts and especially over the division between the two bass parts. The ability (desire) to tell the story with a sense of involvement and of passion will make all the difference to a successful performance. (Pub)

"Life has loveliness to sell, all beautiful and splendid things, blue waves whitened on a cliff, soaring fire that sways and sings...Spend all you have for loveliness, buy it and never count the cost..." Sara Teasdale's wonderful poem Barter is the inspiration for this gently flowing, expressive musical setting. Simply beautiful, the music does justice to the text with sensitivity and exquisite taste! (JWP)

The Wilhousky setting of this 19th century hymn is possibly the most heartfelt musical pronouncement of American patriotism. Divisi sections in all parts are accessible and still richly expressive with harmonic colors and sweeping dynamic contrasts. Emotional and highly effective, it is a truly magnificent setting that may be performed with band or orchestral accompaniment. It's also the one chosen most often by U.S. military ensembles. (JWP)

Birdsong is a celebration of life. The text comes from a collection of poems written by children who, while incarcerated in the Terezin Concentration Camp in Czechoslovakia during the Second World War, wrote of their experiences and their dreams. In Birdsong the young author writes of the beauty of the world rather than of the horrors and destruction of the then present circumstances. The text's positive and uplifting message is all the more striking when placed against the backdrop of war and the loss of personal freedom. (Pub)

Here is Sir Charles Villiers Stanford's famous meditative setting of a poem by Mary Elizabeth Coleridge. The editor has provided several options to make it more accessible to more choirs without losing the full glistening impact of the work. (Pub)

This lovely a cappella setting of the poem by Mary Elizabeth Coleridge features a lyrical soprano solo and beautifully harmonized choral parts. Several cued-note options are provided to make the arrangement accessible without losing the full impact of the work. This concert setting features an a cappella style with modern influence and clever voice-leading and articulation to set the text. A musically challenging piece, it's an excellent choice for developing beautiful choral tone and expression. Highly recommended! (JWP)

Elaine Hagenberg captures the hushed majesty of an evening in the Blue Ridge Mountains, with crystal clear melodies and fervent harmonies illuminating the poem of Harriet Monroe. The ascent and descent of the opening lines trace the mountains' silhouette against the sky, followed by the treble and bass voices that draw us by turn to view each detail of the scene and listen for the wisdom of the mountains. Accomplished high school choirs and beyond will find beauty and meaning as they explore this piece. (Pub)

Irving Berlin's quintessential song is a classic of swing style, and this straightforward, singable arrangement brings Berlin's standard to vocal jazz and show choirs of any level. The swing groove is established in the beginning with choral voices accompanied by finger snaps and bass guitar. Later in the arrangement, written-out scat solos will encourage younger singers to try this vocal jazz technique. (JWP)

"Bonse Aba" is a Christian song of celebration that is popular throughout Zambia. Though often sung without accompaniment, "Bonse Aba" may be performed with drums or other percussion instruments. (Pub)

Here is an exuberant a cappella number that's loaded with African atmosphere! The traditional Zambian words are sung throughout, with such a buoyant rhythmic feel that you are transported into the center of a native celebration. "Bonse Aba" translates as, "All that sing have the right to be called the children of God." The song is brief, but may be repeated as many times as desired. Various voicing options are possible, and African percussion may be added as the piece progresses. Your choir will definitely want to improvise some celebratory whoops and shouts! Highly recommended! This lovely, late Renaissance/early Baroque work is complemented by a new, contemporary English text for more general use by both schools and churches and also a soaring descant which adds to the emotional impact. The English text, a powerful call for peace, is not intended to be a literal translation of the original Latin (which is also included as a performance option). Whether performed accompanied or a cappella, this piece provides a marvelous masterwork experience for young and developing choirs. (Pub)

The Calliope, or steam organ, common in the old west. This particular calliope, "Connie," is full of steam and full of noise. Lies he tells without a blink on a chance to have a frink – to the refrain: "Must have been that way when born." (Pub)

Listed as 3-Part Treble on music. Website states SSA.

Taken from the Sounds of a Better World project, these songs call for a better future for all our children. With its blend of classical, jazz, folk and world-beat styles, this infectious music is already taking the US by storm and is now available for upper voice choir.

Can you hear? is a dramatic call for a better future, using world-beat sounds, unified chordal harmonies, and occasional solos to stunning effect. (Pub)

"Can you hear my cries? I am calling out to you." The global community of children speaks together in this dramatic call for a better future that uses worldbeat sounds, unified chordal harmonies, and occasional solos for a stunning effect. This is an inspiring way to close your concert or festival, or to set a tone for a dynamic new beginning for a season of music-making. Highly recommended! (JWP)

I wrote this piece to include sing language, as I have always found it to be an incredibly sensitive and beautiful form of communication - it also served as a reminder to me always to try to be open and aware of other people, and also of our surroundings. The three short choruses can be signed where marked. - Bob Chilcott - November 1997 (Pub)

A simple and beautiful setting describing the wonder of a world seen through the eyes of a deaf child. In the chorus singers are encouraged to sign the words they are singing, resulting in very moving but unsentimental music. (U.S. Distributor)

The simple message, "Can you see, feel, hear me, the sun too?" is expressed through sign language as this two-part choral is sung. Signing pictures are included on the opening page for both British and American sign language. (JWP)

Cantique de Jean Racine was written in 1865 during Fauré's final year at the École Niedermeyer, winning him the first prize for composition, and this elegant work now holds a cherished place in the choral repertory for both sacred and secular occasions. Presented with an English singing translation in addition to the original French, John Rutter's edition includes an accompaniment for organ or piano, and the work may also be performed with the transcription for harp and strings (available separately), compatible with the instrumentation for the OUP edition of the Fauré Requiem in its 1893 version. Complete orchestral and vocal material is available on hire/rental and on sale. This arrangement for upper voices remains as faithful to the original as possible. (Pub)

Caramba (Good Gracious, My Love) is a serenade from Venezuela. The roots of this style come from a Spanish tradition started around the Colonial time when the Spanish came to the Americas (16th-18th centuries). The serenade continued to be quite popular at the beginning of the 20th century. Typically, a young lady, just inside a window of her home, is serenaded by her lover. Fortunately, this is still practiced in some cities where life remains calm! (Pub)

"Caritas et Amor" ("Charity and Love") makes frequent brief references to the opening (and well-known) theme of the tenth-century antiphon, Ubi Caritas, and then builds sonic reflections to that theme using new material, albeit in a "chant style." In this manner, it fundamentally differs from the Duruflé "Ubi Caritas" in which the original chant forms the majority, if not all, of the thematic material for the work. The composer, Z. Randall Stroope, also incorporates the line "Gaudium quod immensum est!" ("joy that is immense!") which serves as a joyful and sonorous "refrain" to the sense of compassion and promise inherent in the opening Ubi Caritas text ("Where there is charity and love, God is there"). (Pub)

A cappella Caritas et Amor is a richly sonorous reflection on the tenth-century antiphon Ubi Caritas. The reverence of the powerful Latin chant, "Where there is charity and love, God is there," is followed by a joyous interjection: "Gaudium quod immensum est," or "Joy that is immense." (JWP)

A powerful spiritual set to a new tune by the composer. Feelings of great longing and desperation in the text are expressed through the tonality and tempo. The polyphonic writing at the close of the work is expertly crafted and reflects how a spiritual might have naturally been sung in its day - each line coming out of what was heard before. (Pub)

This arrangement of the traditional spiritual is set in a style that includes elements of both the spiritual and gospel genres. It uses modulation and word painting to evoke the concept of "climbing the mountain." (Pub)

Gospel and spiritual meet in this creative arrangement, which effectively uses modulation and word painting to give the feeling of "climbing the mountain." The performance notes help to make this an excellent teaching piece, while clever part writing, a solid accompaniment and hand claps make it lots of fun to perform! (JWP)

The text is by William Butler Yeats, an Irish poet. In this setting the music compliments the words by following the natural rhythm of the text. Rich in symbolic imagery, "Had I the heavens' embroidered cloths, Enwrought with gold and silver light, I'd spread the gold and silver cloths under your feet: Tread softly, you tread on my dreams." This piece is on many state and regional contest lists. (JWP)

Originally written for the International Children's Choir Festival in Canterbury, England, this piece is perfect for all ages. The text speaks of imagination, creativity and possibility. It encourages the singer to live life to the fullest with declarative statements such as I am hope, I am love, I am a servant, I am peace. Its lightly rhythmic melody flows and soars, and the piece ends quietly with the reflective affirmation, I am peace. (Pub)

Cripple Creek is a folk song in the Appalachian tradition, using harmony, fiddle, and piano (in the style of a strumming guitar or banjo). As with most folk music, the origins of the song are uncertain. Some attribute the location of the song to the discovery of gold in Cripple Creek, Colorado in the late 19th Century. Others attribute it to labor disputes in the same area in the early 20th Century. There is a Cripple Creek that flows through Southwest Virginia, and a town in North Carolina named Cripple Creek. Whatever its inspiration, the music is clearly in the Southern mountain tradition. (Pub)

With accompaniment of five unpitched percussion instruments, each playing a different rhythmic pattern, this setting of a Nigerian folk song is exciting in performance! There's plenty of repetition in the Nigerian text, as well as phonetic spelling, to simplify the learning process. This has become a popular choice with festival choirs. (JWP)

Mozart's Dies irae has been transposed down a major second from the original. Scored originally for S.A.T.B. voices with an accompaniment of basset horns (alto clarinets), bassoons, trumpets, timpani, strings, and continuo, this new edition includes a keyboard reduction of the instrumental parts as the accompaniment. Modern clefs, a tempo indication and optional English words have also been added by the editor. (Pub)

Finally, an edition of this well-known choral masterwork from Mozart's "Requiem" suitable for today's choirs! Patrick Liebergen has re-scored the keyboard accompaniment and transposed the work down a major second to make it more accessible for accompanists and singers alike. Generally considered Mozart's last musical sketch, it was featured in the closing scenes of the movie "Amadeus." (JWP)

Michael Haydn particularly enjoyed working with the Salzburg Cathedral's fifteen choirboys who sang the treble parts of all the choral music performed in the Cathedral. The "Dixit Dominus" is the first movement of a complete Vespers that he wrote for these boys in 1780. Like other works by this wonderful composer, the music is tuneful, energetic, and dance-like--qualities which were assuredly as appealing to 18th-century children as they are to those of today. Interestingly, Haydn's Vespers setting was written in the same year that Wolfgang Mozart, who was living and working in Salzburg at the same time, wrote his own beautiful Vesperae solennes de confessore, K. 321. Vuelie is the opening musical number for the 2013 Disney animated feature Frozen. The song is inspired by indigenous Saami and Norwegian culture, and was written and composed by Norwegian composer Frode Fjellheim. The song is a combination of Saami yoiking and the Danish Christmas hymn "Dejlig er jorden"/"Fairest Lord Jesus". Composed by Frode Fjellheim. The original hymn is composed by the Danish composer B.S. Ingemann.

Eatnemen Vuelie is inspired by the traditional Sami "Yoik." Yoik is a very old vocal tradition among the Sami people of Scandinavia and Russia. Typical of this tradition is the use of short melodic phrases that repeat endlessly with small variations. For children's choir or women's choir (SSAA), synthesizer, percussion and solo medium voice. German, English and Norwegian versions of the text. (Pub)

The most important aspect of rendering an appropriate modern performance of Renaissance choral literature is to allow the meter of each individual line to be determined by the proper syllabic accent of the text. Using this unbarred and unmetred edition. In the choir will experience free flowing and undulating lines determined by the accented syllables of the text instead of meters being imposed by bar lines. For the singers of the Renaissance, this knowledge of allowing the line to flow with the accent of the text was second nature. In the present, the edition becomes the tool that the performer uses to exact a more accurate and also more exciting performance! Above and beyond adding excitement and authenticity to the performance, this edition will also assist the performers in becoming more independent both aurally and musically. (Pub)

Commissioned for the 2016 Eastern Division ACDA, this Christina Rossetti poem is a wonderful teaching piece. The melodic line in the opening section is constructed to evoke feelings of beauty, loss and remembrance. A middle section paints a picture of grief, reality, and the feeling of life spinning out of control. After the climax of this middle section, there is a return to a sense of calm, symbolizing that as time passes, we are able to come to terms with loss. (Pub)

The 20th-century Hungarian composer wrote the series entitled Parasceve ('Preparation for the celebration') to texts from the gospels of St Matthew and St John in 1933, to mark the 1900th anniversary of the death of Jesus Christ. The most frequently heard, best-known piece in this motet series for mixed choir is Eli! Eli!, composed to the words of Christ suffering on the cross ('My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?'). "Eneza upendo uendako, umoja ni upendo" translates to "Spread love everywhere you go, unity is love." This piece celebrates the hopeful sentiments of unity and love through both Swahili and English lyrics that can be used throughout the year or to celebrate the Kwanzaa principle of Umoja (unity). Djembe and soft metal percussion add flair, and singers can also get in on the fun with some light body percussion. (JWP)

These lovely, classic part-songs [Five Flower Songs] were written as a 25th wedding anniversary present for Dorothy and Leonard Elmhirst of Dartington Hall. Apparently Britten chose the subject matter because they were keen botanists. Whatever the reason for the choice, it was a supremely happy one and brought from Britten a set of pieces which, while in a direct line of descent from the classic part-songs of Elgar, Stanford and Parry, are entirely original.

These songs are designed as a set. The mood-scape shows that Britten was keenly aware of the variety needed to satisfy performers and audience between bookends. The unsentimental originality of To Daffodils with its tempo marking of Allegro impetuoso focusing on the speedy demise of the flower which is of course a metaphor for the passing of life; the clever division into four voices for the four months in The Succession of the Four Sweet Months and that beautifully simple device at the end where each month is named and forms a lovely cadence; the bitter-sweet Marsh Flowers to its poem by George Crabbe and the way Britten makes a slightly menacing atmosphere relieved only by the description of gentler plants; the ever-so-slightly sentimental Evening Primrose, the slow movement of the set; and finally Green Broom, a tour-de-force of humour which is crowned, at its heart, by Britten's slightly hysterical altos singing 'Go fetch me the boy!' The gradual accelerando throughout this piece leading to the final flourish makes this a wonderful and exciting finale to a set of part-songs which should be at the heart of any choirs repertoire. Festival Te Deum	Britten, Benjamin		TATB	Boosey & Hawkes / Hal Leonard	180	C-0976

Level: Grade 2 to 3 (Pub)

Length: 07:00

Available for SmartMusic:

Pub. No.: H. 15656 / M051481699 / HL48021233

Pub. Date: 1945

Britten's second setting of the Te Deum is completely different from the C major one he wrote eleven years earlier. It was composed for the centenary Festival of St. Mark's Church in Swindon - an Anglo-Catholic church with a strong choral tradition which continues to this day. The structure of the piece is also different from the earlier work. A lengthy first section in unison which, while carefully notated in a variety of time signatures so that it feels as if it has the freedom of Gregorian chant, is accompanied by static organ chords in a regular 3/4 metre. It is a really imaginative approach, and is actually very simple to perform. While the organ chords continue, the choir breaks up into simple imitative phrases at 'The glorious company of the Apostles praise Thee' but soon returns to the unison lines of the opening. The central section ('Thou art the King of Glory, O Chris't) has fanfare-like phrases from the choir interspersed by short dramatic outbursts from the organ which then subside into a rhythmic piano section with an important ostinato pedal part for the organ. These two ideas are then mixed together before the opening organ chords return and a treble/soprano soloist sings a lovely line. The choir joins and takes the canticle to its gentle conclusion with the soloist having the last word.

This setting is more straightforward than the earlier one. It does, however, have rhythmic issues which have to be mastered fully to do it justice. The choir, for instance, must not be pulled off course by the different time signature for the organ part in the opening and closing sections. It is all very straightforward in reality, it just looks complicated. Britten has thoughtfully annotated the vocal rhythm throughout the organ part for safety. The organist needs to be a confident musician. Where Britten may write eminently practically for the abilities of a parish church choir, he does not make similar allowances for the organist and the accompaniment is key to the success of a performance of this and many other such works. ONE OF THE MOST WIDELY ACCEPTED CHORAL WORKS OF ITS GENERATION. THE BELOVED TEXT IS GIVEN A GENTLE, JOYFUL TUNE BY THE MASTER COMPOSER JOHN RUTTER. (Pub)

This masterful choral is one that has connected with singers and congregations all over the globe. It is a timeless anthem you'll come back to each and every year. If you haven't already, consider the instrumental accompaniment for a fresh perspective on this gem. Scored for strings, winds, harp (playable on keyboard), and drums, it includes instrumental lines that soar as beautifully as the vocal melody. A multi-generational favorite, this is a tasteful blend of text and musical expression. Vintage John Rutter. (JWP)

-----

Love this piece! Very accessible and I could program it again for freshman chorus. (K. Wakeman - Brockport High School)

ONE OF THE MOST BELOVED CHORAL WORKS OF ITS GENERATION BY THE MASTER COMPOSER JOHN RUTTER. (Pub)

John Rutter's engaging melody over a flowing accompaniment is equally beautiful in either the SATB or SA treatment. You'll want to look at the instrumental accompaniment for a fresh perspective on this gem. Scored for strings, winds, harp (playable on keyboard), and drums, it includes instrumental lines that are as lovely as the vocal lines. A perennial favorite, this is a tasteful blend of text and musical expression. Vintage John Rutter. (JWP)

An inspiring and exciting arrangement that has become an international festival favorite. "‘Trilogy’ here refers not to the individual tunes that are so magically blended, first sequentially and then simultaneously, but rather to the three sonic worlds that the tunes represent: Gregorian chant yields to the sounds of Africa before both are gloriously embraced by ‘Amazing Grace’. Halley’s vision of a world without boundaries is powerfully conveyed in a work that will continue to delight, inspire, and amaze after many repeated auditions." — Jennifer Kolmes, The American Organist Magazine (Pub)

Winner of Honorable Mention in the 2020 King's Singers New Music Prize, Marianne Forman's sparkling music sets James Weldon Johnson's text about singing through adversity:

"...and if the way grows darker still, shadowed by Sorrow's somber wing with glad defiance in my throat, I pierce the darkness with a note, and sing...
...no nights are dark, no days are long, while in my heart there swells a song, and I can sing."

From the Sounds of a Better World project, this new series of songs calls for a better future for all our children. With its blend of classical, jazz, folk and world-beat styles, this infectious music is already taking the US by storm and is now available for upper voice choir.

Co-written with lyricists Leo Schaff and Regine Urbach, Give Us Hope is a powerful message of hope for a better world. A subdued opening gradually builds up to an uplifting climax that will strike a universal chord with all audiences. Dramatic! (Pub - Boosey & Hawkes)

Jim Papoulis is donating his composer royalties to the Foundation For Small Voices, a non-profit organization dedicated to bringing awareness and funding to programs supporting the empowerment of children throughout the world by fostering their creativity through music and role models. (Pub - Hal Leonard)

Expressing a powerful message of hope for a better world, this dynamic piece strikes a universal chord for all to hear! The quiet and subdued opening gradually builds to a dramatic musical statement using hand claps and short solos for a climactic ending. "Give us hope and we'll show you the way." Highly recommended! This is a gospel arrangement of a spiritual from the African-American folk tradition which we first became familiar with through the work of Cynthia Wilson Felder in Texas. From the many variants of the text we have developed an extended version which allowed us to maximize the use of Gospel-style modulation and to give our singers significant one-line reminders of some of the biblical stories on which the African-American musical tradition is based. This evocative anthem, from the larger work Snow Angel, is a piece of two halves. Opening with a haunting cello line, the first section ('God Will Give Orders') is mystical and ethereal, until a vibrant figure from the djembe lifts the music into the second section ('Sweet Child'), which is uplifting and bold in character, with a distinctly African feel and an effective a cappella ending. A tour-de-force for SSAA chorus, unaccompanied. For today's singers and audiences, the text is as tongue-in-cheek as they come. Yet it was written in a leaflet issued by the National Women's Christian Temperance Union and was intended to be quite, quite serious! Apples and grapes are God's bottles! "Some men take the juice of apples and grapes and make drinks that will harm our bodies!" But "We will drink from GOD'S BOTTLES." A fun exercise in precise ensemble techniques with changing tempi, articulations, and dynamics. (Piub)

This hauntingly beautiful original setting features stunning melodies and full, rich sonorities which convey the resolve of one who has lost the love of another. This is an excellent piece to teach choirs how to sing with emotion and expressivity through choral performance in which sadness and longing amidst the resolve of one's heart contribute to the formation of an artistic endeavor. A superb showpiece for treble choirs! (Pub)

The poem was written by a young pilot in 1941—it has been called the most famous aviation poem ever written. The composer is very in tune with the message of the poem—an inspired piece. Oh! I have slipped the surly bonds of earth And danced the skies on laughter-silvered wings; Sunward I've climbed, and joined the tumbling mirth Of sun-split clouds—and done a hundred things You have not dreamed of—wheeled and soared and swung High in the sunlit silence. Hov'ring there I've chased the shouting wind along, and flung My eager craft through footless halls of air. Up, up the long delirious, burning blue, I've topped the windswept heights with easy grace Where never lark, or even eagle flew— And, while with silent lifting mind I've trod The high untrespassed sanctity of space, Put out my hand and touched the face of God. This heartfelt piece has touched thousands of musicians and their audiences with its warmth and sincerity. Additionally, it has become the anthem for many soldiers returning home. Our stunning new arrangement, as written for the Mormon Tabernacle Choir at Temple Square, offers a four-hand piano reduction of Dr. Wilberg's magnificent orchestration (orchestration available for rent. Contact alfredrental@lucksmusic.com). (Pub)

This heartfelt song has touched thousands of musicians and their audiences with its warmth and sincerity, and it has also become an anthem for soldiers returning home from war. Mack Wilberg's stunning arrangement, as written for The Mormon Tabernacle Choir, includes a penny whistle on the recorded track that adds a wonderful Celtic flavor. "Set me free to find my calling and I'll return to you somehow." This is a timeless piece that belongs in every choral library. Highly recommended! (JWP)

A clever, upbeat rhythmic pattern mirrors the sentiment of the text as it “never stops at all” except for a few moments of mid-song reflection with the poem’s final thought: “It never asked a crumb of me.” Fun and inspiring, this piece would provide a special highlight for a concert. (Pub)

When this distinguished British composer was asked to write a short motet for the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II, he balked; remembering the musical over-pompousness of the 1937 affair. "If you can persuade the Archbishop to have a hymn in the Coronation service," he quipped to the organist of Westminster Abbey, "I'll make a mess-up of 'Old Hundredth.'" It has since become an all-time classic in church literature.

Ralph Vaughan Williams' setting of The Hundredth Psalm is for mixed chorus and orchestra. This is the keyboard/choral score. "O be joyful in the Lord all ye lands: serve the Lord with gladness, and come before his presence with a song." (Pub)

In this piece, poet Zöe Atkins compares her uncertainty to the wavering winds and shifting shadows, contrasting with the unchanging stars and secure land. This poetic tension is mirrored musically through rhythmic contrast and dissonant choral harmonies which highlight the power of women's voices—joining together, offering strength and, ultimately, soaring as one. Commissioned by the National ACDA Women's Choir Consortium, this piece is a rewarding challenge for advanced women's choirs. (Pub)

The sentiment of the text, "I believe in the sun, even when it's not shining," is a bold statement of trust and is applicable in any sacred or secular setting. This anthem truly represents the best of Mark Miller's writing and will be sung by generations to come. (Pub)

Written in lyric style, this beautiful choral can be used for any occasion. The sentiment of the text "I believe in the sun, even when it's not shining" springs forth with inspiration and sends thoughts toward hope. (JWP)

I Have Had Singing paraphrases lines taken from Ronald Blythe's Akenfield, Portrait of an English Village. In the 1960's, Blythe traveled to the north of England interviewing farmers, plowmen, blacksmiths — people whose stories dated back to the early 20th century. One subject, given the name Fred Mitchell in the book, was an 80-year old horseman who told his story of working a bleak, unfertile land in a life filled with little joy. In the midst of his story, he stopped and said, "But there was always singing; the boys in the field, the chapels were full of singing. I have had pleasure enough; I have had singing."

I Have Had Singing was written for the Berkshire Choral Festival, a summer amateur music festival. I Have Had Singing speaks to amateur and professional musicians alike about the simple love of singing and the lasting joy it can bring. (Pub)

These [I Lov'd a Lass & Lift Boy] are two delightful and contrasted part-songs for choir and piano which ought to be a gift to choirs looking for rare secular repertoire for their concert programmes. I lov'd a lass is full of fun, while the challenge lies in the regularly changing metre. The choirs first bar is in 7/8 and is followed by 5/4 and then 3/4. Later on Britten gives us 3/4, 7/8, 11/8, 4/4, 5/4, 7/8, 4/4 in successive bars but this all adds to the entertainment. There are lots of portamenti too in what adds up to a passionate little piece. ANOTHER OF JOHN RUTTER'S MEMORABLE MELODIES, RICH WITH FEELING. THE ACCOMPANIMENT IS AN INTEGRAL PART OF THE MUSIC, CONTRASTING WITH THE VOCAL LINE AND PROVIDING FORWARD MOTION. ALSO AVAILABLE IN A 2-PART SETTING (HMC1387). HIGHLY RECOMMENDED. (Pub)

Here is a fine example of the compositional style of John Rutter: a memorable and lyrical melody and an expressive accompaniment that is an integral part of the music. The long, sustained lines are rich with feeling and depth, while the accompaniment contrasts very nicely with the voices and provides forward motion. A resplendent work. (JWP)

THIS SPIRITED ARRANGEMENT OF STEPHEN FOSTER'S FOLK SONG IS SURE TO GET A LAUGH OUT OF YOUR AUDIENCE AND CHOIR. WE DARE YOU TO KEEP A STRAIGHT FACE! (Pub)

Stephen Foster is known for his sentimental ballads, but he also wrote humorous songs such as this one. Cooper's satirical lyrics poke fun at that era's fashion for facial hair, giving a good moustache credit for success in life, love and even finances. This rollicking arrangement is given an almost operatic treatment, with soloists, more...choir and accompanist elaborating on the success stories told in each verse. All will enjoy this lively number, which ends with a big patter-song finale reminiscent of Rossini or Sullivan. (SMP)

This spiritual begins softly with a soloist (or small ensemble) and continues to crescendo in texture and dynamics, climaxing at the key change with the addition of a soaring descant. The repetition of the text, "I'm goin' up a yonder," helps to amplify the longing to go "home." (Pub)

At last, an accessible contemporary gospel work for the young mixed ensemble on a secular text! From the driving keyboard accompaniment to the syncopated rhythms, this work has the style and drive of a gospel powerhouse! It is a great educational opportunity to explore the genre that has greatly affected American music. The three-part mixed format with optional baritone part adds flexibility to this work that is a strong addition to the literature for the young mixed ensemble. This gets our highest recommendation! Welcome your audiences with this lively cross-cultural number which, translated from the Swahili, means "Hello, welcome to Africa." Patsy Simms has crafted the piece in the traditional African style with brief joyous solos (or small groups) followed by responses from the choir. Much of the text is in English and the Swahili phrases are easy and fun to sing (pronunciation guide included). It's happy, jubilant, and repetition makes it easy to learn. Don't miss the "world music" (Pub)

I was a little skeptical regarding the 'ease' with which it can be learned; however, this arrangement proved to be positive in its textual content and in the musicality with which students perform it. Due to its multi-cultural nature, a conductor is able to use many different percussion combinations. (Benita Eldridge - Elmira City School District - Zone 15 AAS)

If you have the choir and accompanist to handle this, you must give it a serious look because it is just phenomenal! In its original form, the song stems from the Delta Blues tradition, and was recorded by Blind Willie Johnson and Son House during the 1920s and 1930s. "O tell me who is that writin'? John the Revelator...O tell me what is he writin'? 'bout the Revelation...writin' in the book of seven seals..." In the summer of 1988 I traveled to Kenya with the Yale-Fulbright/Hays Group Projects Aboard program. In July and August of 1992, I returned to Kenya with support from a Connecticut Commission on the Arts Individual Artist Award. Both of these trips were exhilarating. I visited many primary schools (grades one through eight), and with each visit the children sang. They sang songs of welcome, and songs of farewell. They performed game songs with solo singing and group response. All of these performances were a cappella with an occasional drum or shaker accompaniment. The songs were also accompanied by dancing and improvised movement. I audio taped all of these impromptu concerts. Kenya Melodies is an arrangement of five songs from the tapes. (Pub)

This is one of Handel's most well-known and loved choral works. Here, Andre Thomas provides a practical modern edition making the piece more useable for choirs and audiences. The long introduction has been shortened and the keyboard part is a reduction of the orchestration (not a continuo part). This edition can be performed with piano, two oboes and bassoon. This is a great festival piece for high school voices. (Pub)

Editor's Note: This edition was prepared to be suitable for the Florida All State Mixed Choir. The long introduction has been shortened. The keyboard part is designed to be playable. It is not a realized continuo part, but a piano reduction of the orchestration. This edition can be performed with piano, two oboes and bassoon, or with the full orchestration. If the full orchestration is used, delete measures 4-24. Metronome setting, dynamics, and expressive markings are all editorial. (JWP / Pub)

"Kusimama" is written in the World music style that is accessible for choirs, both young and old, who are just beginning to be exposed to world rhythms and language, a sort of introduction to new languages, syllables, body percussion and style. The text which is in both Swahili and English, is about standing tall on the earth, not with anger or aggression, but with hope, strength, acceptance, and positivity. The voices along with hand claps, stomps, djembe, shaker and piano all combine for an exciting World music presentation. (Pub)

The composer chose this text because of its "human-ness". Suffering to a greater or lesser degree is common to all human beings. The present musical setting of these lamentations seeks to capture the wide range of emotions which Jeremiah must have felt grief-stricken, alone, ready to cry out, sobbing uncontrollably, and torn between belief and his circumstance. Indeed, the composer has sought to firmly root the listener's feet "in the soil" of life and let him or her feel sorrow in one breath and love in the next. Choirs must communicate this array of juxtaposed passions to the listeners, who will understand and will know all too well many of these feelings. The piece ends in a sudden overwhelming feeling of confidence and unleashed power in his Lord ("Domine") and the strength of that relationship in difficult times. (Pub)

Johann Adolf Hasse (born in Bergedorf, Germany on march 25, 1699 and died in Venice on December 16,1783) spent the majority of his mature life as a composer, alternating frequently between Dresden, Venice, and Vienna. This edition of his Laudate Coeli Dominum is based upon a hand-copied score by an unknown copyist. The piece begins with a bass solo proclaiming the words "praise the Lord from the heavens", repeated immediately by the choir. Each subsequent phrase is first sung by the bass, and then answered by the choir, ending with the words from Psalm 97:3 "the Lord has made his salvation known. He has revealed His justice. This work, written especially for Brian Busch, is an energetic setting of Robert Louis Stevenson's poetry from an 1896 collection called Songs of Travel and Other Verse. The setting provides excellent contrast between the legato verses. This is another great choice for concert or festival programming for SSA voices. (Pub)

Robert Louis Stevenson's poetry and Laura Farnell's music are perfectly wedded in this exceptional work for concert or festival choirs. There is some mixed meter, but it is so supportive of the natural rhythm of the text that the result is exhilarating. A dynamic work, full of wonderful contrasts, this is an outstanding choice for women's voices! Highly recommended! (JWP)

Filled with hued jazz chords and contagious energy, this authentic gospel setting of Psalm 150 culminates in a choral duet, as the men and women vie to sing the most fervent outburst of praise. (Pub)

Psalm 150 is a glorious passage of scripture to begin with! And this exhilarating gospel original is a musical tour-de-force of gospel rhythms, choral expressions of praise, and a piano accompaniment that is fun for even the most serious of classical pianists. Energetic and exuberant, with an effective a cappella section, this could be the piece in your concert, worship service or festival this year. (JWP)

Your singers are encouraged to create their own speaking parts to use in the place of some or all of the suggested ones printed in the score. This is welcomed and well within the vision of why this piece was created. Original responses can open a door into the very soul of the choir. Young women from all walks of life can become aware that their classmates – whether popular or unpopular, cheerleader or not, rich or poor – all struggle with the same insecurities. A powerful ballad that builds with intensity and energy. Don't miss this all-time smash choral standard. (Pub)

For many years, students and audiences everywhere have been deeply moved by this powerful text ("Like an eagle I will soar above the clouds; I will spread my wings and fly into the sun..."). The soaring melody and lush harmonies of this pop-ballad-style song have helped to make it a perennial favorite for graduation and spring concerts. Now available in voicings for choirs at all levels, this is a choral standard that has earned a permanent place in the repertoire for school choirs! (JWP)

The Ceremony of Carols is one of Britten's best-known and most-performed works. It is a brilliantly conceived and dramatic concert work which sees the voices process to their places singing unaccompanied plainsong and, at the end, processing out again to the same chant. These movements can also be accompanied but strictly only if the voices do not process. The final Alleluia can be repeated as many times as necessary to get the singers to and from their destination.
The carols are for three-part children's voices (though, of course they can be sung by female adults as well) and they form a two-part work around a central Interlude for harp which is based on the plainsong from the Procession. Variety is the key word here as all the carols have such individual identities. The forthright Wolcum Yole!, the deliciously lyrical There is no Rose, the swinging Balulalow, the fiery and dramatic This little Babe all contribute to a work which is a feast of discovery throughout. Lovely solos and duos add further colour and the harp part, an inspired choice of accompaniment, enriches, colours and surrounds the voices with its pictorial musical imagery. If anything shows Britten's genius for writing for voices it must be this work.
The challenges here are in creating a real equality between voice parts, fielding a confident pair of soloists, and making the most of the wonderfully colourful poems Britten has chosen to set. Pronunciation is not really an issue, but when I recorded this work with the Finzi Singers I decided to follow the example of Sacred and Profane and use authentic medieval pronunciation for which an expert coach was necessary. It brings an added element of colour to a familiar aural experience. (Pub)

If you loved Jabula Jesu, this one is the next step. Cultures all over the world start out placing the divine on mountaintops, until the revelation comes that all the land you see below you is divine as well. That is the theme of this piece, which reminds us that all cities are holy. The music incorporates my favourite technique of superimposed ostinati that slowly unfold like a kaleidoscope pattern. Excellent for opening or closing a concert, or commemorating any group endeavour. There is a South African flavour, but the piece uses the style as a launching pad into something beyond. Tuneful, rhythmic, with every section getting lots of goodies. Suitable for sacred and secular gatherings both. Every choir that's done this to date has told me the audience/congregation went wild. This setting of Maya Angelou's poem Touched by an Angel is a reminder that love is not a mere timid, fleeting feeling, but a courageous struggle which heightens our experience of both joy and pain. Love leads us from self-awareness to wholeness; love requires our complete sacrifice even as it offers us the ultimate gift in return. For only love can unleash the true freedom of our souls. The vocal writing successfully tracks the varied emotions, now rhythmic, now gentle, and well supported by a well-crafted piano accompaniment. There are frequent excursions into three-part writing. (Pub)

Maya Angelou's poem Touched by an Angel is elegantly represented by the treatment of the text by the voice and the expressiveness of the piano accompaniment. The vocal writing successfully tracks the varied emotions - sometimes rhythmic, sometimes gentle - generated by the text. Mostly in three-part with some excursions into two-part writing. (JWP)

These two Latin aphorisms are of unknown origin, but since the first (Lumen accipe et imperti) is a motto for many schools around the world, I wanted to make the music sound like one part is "teaching" the next part. I also imagined the light growing a little bit stronger each time it passes from singer to singer, so I started with small intervals that gradually expand into larger leaps and long scales. (Pub)

This original, evocative work is a fine and accessible choice for high school and beyond. The powerful experiences of the poet, while singing in her high school choir, inspired the composer of this piece. The accents and shifting pulse of the music describe the "luminescence" – light, music, human beings, and the joys of singing together. (Pub)

 "Eternal light, luminescence, time forgotten, time shifting, sifting through silence..." An impressionistic text lends itself beautifully to a cappella singing in this evocative work which is, to quote the composer, "a journey in sound and light and a tribute to the unifying and encompassing nature of the choral experience - the joys of singing in community with others - where 'many become one.'" Ma Navu is known internationally as an Israeli folk dance. The melody's graceful flowing line is especially elegant in this setting for women's voices in four parts. The opening unison melody returns three more times with each successive verse adding a new voice of harmony. One verse of text is utilized throughout the piece. The accompaniment, of easy to moderate difficulty, changes with each verse. Unrelated to a particular holiday, this piece can be performed any time during the year. This arrangement was written for the March 1995 concert of the White Heron Chorale directed by Richard Bjella of Lawrence University. (JWP)

The text of the Magnificat, "My soul doth magnify the Lord, and my spirit rejoices in God my Savior" has been set by master composers through the ages. A cappella Hilarious! Here is your chance to show off the personality of your men's group with style! Familiar melodies, such as Verdi's La Donna e Mobile and the Toreador song from "Carmen," are given new words to fit the egos of each different voice part. Manx Gaelic, as spoken on the Isle of Man, is similar to the Gaelic spoken in Ireland and Scotland. Many Manx folk songs make reference to birds, as this one does. Oh ho-ro hi ri ri... as sung by the chorus imitates the sound of a dove. Complete with a bird-like obbligato on optional C-instrument, this is a uniquely charming selection for unison voices! (JWP)

This is a gentle lullaby in traditional Gaelic style. The modal harmony undulates between the tonic and the flatted seventh. The obbligato instrumental part may be played on flute, oboe or uilleann pipes. The tune is also found in Irish sources as a fiddle tune with the title Rocking the Cradle. (SMP)

"An American Thanksgiving was commissioned by the Dale Warland Singers for their final season and premiered on November 1, 2003. The concert had a Thanksgiving theme, so I chose three hymns from the original Sacred Harp collection based on their compatible texts and compelling melodies." - Carol Barnett, composer

This piece is the second of three pieces which are published separately. The other two are: Webster and Ninety-Third Psalm. The text was written by an English minister named Samuel Stennett (1727-1797). (Pub)

Singing in a choir is one of the strongest elements of social cohesion in the Manda Wilderness. The difficult nature of the Mozambique terrain, lack of infrastructure such as roads, power and communications, and the distance between small settlements makes the development of other familiar communal activities such as sports, clubs and public entertainment very rare. Reliance on subsistence agriculture means there is little, if any, spare money. Choral singing is centered around the churches, which are hand-made brick structures under a tin roof.

The chance to create music and use it as a means of bringing people together is a rare treat. Fortunately, the beautiful cadences of the Chinyanja language lend themselves well to musical setting, giving opportunity to dance—and dance is an integral part of almost every performance. The annual Manda Wilderness Choir Festival has become the main social event of the year. It may be the only time that many get to travel and spend time with people they have never met. The new Manda Wilderness Choir, based at Nkwichi Lodge on the shores of Lake Niassa/Malawi, is one of the fruits of those links. This publication of some of the songs of Manda is a further step in bringing the world's attention to one of Africa's last true wildernesses. (Pub)

Niska Banja is a Serbian Gypsy dance popular throughout the Balkans. To Central Europeans, the 9/8 rhythm of 2-2-2-3 is as natural as a 4/4 rock beat is in North America, and rapidly becomes both infectious and quite natural. The 4-hand piano accompaniment adds even another dimension to this charming, compelling work. (JWP)

For chorus of four part mixed voices. The original published score states "with organ accompaniment ad libitum." Messiaen later in life designated the work for mixed choir a cappella, but the score was not revised. Thus the piece is often performed without accompaniment. The text is by St. Thomas Aquinas (1225-1274), used as an antiphon for the feast of Corpus Christi. (Pub)

 "We are bound together in threads of joy; threads of grief of soul." Chicago composer Greg Jasperse has conceived this score that speaks with rich harmonic color to illumine an extraordinary text. This is a sound painting of the highest level: at times expansive with lush, open chords, and at other times clustered and dissonant with jazz-flavored influences. A striking work that artistically displays the capabilities of the more experienced choir. (JWP)

This farewell song is a reflection on the constant passage of events and people who have been pillars along life's way. Omnia Sol (or "everywhere light" [sun]) depicts this interaction and daily investing of ourselves in every soul we encounter. Though we mature and 'move on,' part of us is 'staid' in the hearts and minds of those we chance to meet. (Pub)

Omnia sol temperat, "the sun warms everything," comes from a verse of Latin found in Carmina Burana. The composer's English text speaks to the human need to anchor words of love and commitment in the hearts of those who have been pillars along life's way. This is an important contribution to choral literature! (JWP)

The text of this stunning original piece is macaronic (the mixing of two languages), in that the English poetry contains a brief verse of Latin found in the poetry of "Carmina Burana." From a deeper perspective, this farewell or 'song of parting' is a reflection on the constant passage of events and people in life's continuum, and the more...human need to anchor words of love and commitment in the hearts of those who have been pillars along life's way. One's life has an inseparable kinship with others. The metaphor for that kinship in this piece is 'omnia sol' (or 'everywhere light' [sun]), and that kinship or light is perpetuated by our daily investing and leaving a bit of ourselves in every soul we encounter. Though we mature and 'move on,' part of us is 'staid' in the hearts and minds of those we chance to meet. (Pub)

Madrigals by the Renaissance composer Monteverdi provided the inspiration for my own Madrigali. Symbolic images of flames, burning and fire recur often in Italian love poems from this era and my cycle on texts employing this fire motive blends stylistic musical features of the period (word painting, modality, bold harmonic shifts, intricate counterpoint, augenmusik, etc.) within a contemporary compositional idiom. The music emanates from a single, primal sonority (the "Fire-Chord") which opens the piece and is found extensively throughout all six movements in myriad forms and manipulations, providing motivic unity to complement the poetic. This cycle of madrigals has been designated an American Choral Masterpiece by the National Endowment for the Arts. (Pub)

A work which has “taken the choral world by storm”. This is the original version for mixed voices in 11 parts but don’t let that deter you – many of the voices sing long sustained notes. The piece was commissioned by Graeme Morton’s St. Peters Chorale and can be performed by a good high school choir. It ends with an ethereal section of harmonic overtone singing. Prefatory material gives instructions and you should also note the other resources. A “must sing” piece. (Pub)

The English King, Henry VIII (1491-1547), is mainly remembered for disposing of his wives on a regular basis and breaking with the Catholic Church when the Pope Clement VII refused to grant him a divorce so he could marry Anne Boleyn. He was, however, a gifted athlete, dancer and composer, writing many songs, poems and consort pieces (though not Greensleeves, as is often believed). Pastime with Good Company is undoubtedly the best-known of these, written in the first years of the 16th century while he was still a handsome prince, newly married to Catherine of Aragon and the envy of Europe. The lyrics tell the joys of hunting, dancing and singing and would have been sung as part of the court entertainment. (Pub)

This is a beautiful Christmas work that sparkles when paired with the optional obbligato instrument and handbells. The congregation is asked to join with the familiar carol, Silent Night, creating a beautiful duet with the choir as it continues the original melody of Peace, Peace. This is just an amazing work that will greatly add to the spirit of the Christmas season. (Pub)

A sequence of sacred choruses on texts from the prophet Isaiah. One of the finest 20th-century works for unaccompanied chorus. Pulitzer prize-winner, Douglas Moore (at the time chairman of Columbia U. Music Dept.) wrote to Thompson in 1936: "...I want to go on record as believing that you have written the best modern choral work I have heard. It is good from every point of view. Technical treatment of the voices, understanding and expression of the text, and actual musical content which is fresh and beautiful." (Pub) ----- One of Randall Thompson's defining works, this cycle of eight sacred choruses was composed in 1936 and was a groundbreaking musical statement for a cappella choir. It remains a pinnacle of compositional style and 20th century neo-Romantic expression. (JWP)

A powerful and memorable work, commissioned in celebration of the Lewis and Clark Bicentennial. Set in minor mode, it tells of the Mandan Indians (of what is now North Dakota), known as the People of the Willows. They hosted the Lewis and Clark expedition for 184 days as they wintered along the Missouri River. Their chief, Shahaka's promise to Lewis and Clark was, "If we eat, you shall eat. If we starve, you will starve. Our wish is to be at peace with all." (Pub)
If you perform only one multicultural selection this year, make this the one! It is an absolutely marvelous tribute to the Native American culture, specifically the Mandan Indians, natives of what is now North Dakota. Colorful writing for piano, hand drum and flute joins with haunting choral strains to produce a magical effect! "People of the Willows, offering a word of kindness and of peace. People of the Willows, sharing what they have with travelers in need..." Brief introductory notes give fascinating historical background on the Mandan people. Very highly recommended! (JWP)

A colorful arrangement of folk music from Haiti. Lots of fun rhythms and sounds keep this piece going in a steady beat, with drums and easy percussion. The music allows for movement and theatrical effects. Sung in Haitian, it has frequent repetitions of text and music, making it easier than it sounds! (Pub)

The perfect change-of-pace number for any concert, this colorful arrangement of a Haitian folk song has lots of fun rhythms and sounds that you just want to keep singing and hearing. It has an infectious rhythmic groove, vocal percussion, and plenty of repetition. The Haitian words are easy to learn as they tell the story of a young boy who loses the coffee he's supposed to sell at the market, which gets him in trouble with his mother. It's very catchy! (JWP)

Pilgrim Song is a powerful and heartfelt arrangement of a traditional American tune and lyrics. The text speaks of the glory of heaven and the risen life, and welcomes the day of judgement; these words are set strophically to a simple, broadly lilting melody, before the voices open into a grander choral texture with imitative motifs and a dramatic modulation. The piano part (also included in the orchestral version) adds further colour and texture with continuously flowing passages, syncopated countermelodies, and the use of different registers. (Pub)

Commissioned by Emily Ellsworth for her fine children's choir and premiered at the 2011 ACDA National Convention in Chicago, this dance-like music from Handel is a wonderful example of Baroque style music for young singers. Exciting when sung with the piano accompaniment, it is sure to be a real show stopper when the two violins and continuo are employed for performance. (Pub)
The "Plena" is an early twentieth-century Afro-Puerto Rican rhythm that was also a popular musical form among sugar-cane workers. The rhythm has its roots in West Africa, and in Diana Sez's engaging original work, the singers establish the rhythm in a clever introduction. The piano accompaniment employs salsa rhythms, hand percussion adds to the textures, and the singers alternate between dance-like melodies and rhythmic improvisations. (JWP)

The Songster of the title is not one, but three different species of birds, here cleverly represented by an agile flute. Great interplay between the flute and the singers, coupled with an artistic underlay by the piano, make this a special piece worthy of being called an art song for the chorus. (Pub)

The composer chose to highlight various key phrases in the Psalm 23 text and to build the musical structure of the piece around these "textual pillars." The treatment of the text is likeunto someone reading the psalm, and then perusing back through it -internalizing certain words and phrases, not necessarily always in order. As a result, parts of this musical setting of Psalm 23 are meditative, others are triumphant, and still others have the sense of feeling comforted and loved. The Latin word "lauda" {translated "praise"} is interwoven into these musical vignettes and plays a major role in the energy that drives the piece. The flute and oboe also give connection and color to the various textual and musical ideas and create a sense of yearning and dependence -one on the other. The listener feels "pulled in" to the inherent gentleness, yet inner strength of the work. (Pub) ----- Psalm 23 is the canvas upon which Z. Randall Stroope paints this stunning work for women's voices. With accompaniment for piano, flute and oboe (included), this is music of substance for treble choirs, every bit as rewarding as it is challenging! (JWP)

An annual favorite. This arrangement of the traditional spiritual features a soprano solo and an infectious Coda in which the choir is divided into several groups which enter independently. (Pub)

This traditional spiritual is at home in either school or church. There is a soprano solo to begin the song, and excellent four-part writing. On many festival and state lists, as well as a staple in church libraries. (Pub)

A typical greeting in the Zulu culture, San'bonani is written with the call-and-response technique so strongly associated with traditional South African music. The soloists can be male or female and can take their time when performing their parts. This song can be used as an introduction to a program. It is intended to welcome the audience. The response from the choir "Hololo hololo" is jubilant and may contain ululating and other traditional African noises. Simple hand gestures and waving towards the audience are appropriate. The choir may choose to walk onto stage while singing this piece. (Pub)

Taken from Rutter's edition of Fauré's Requiem, this angelic and widely beloved Sanctus features both the original French words and an optional English text, translated and adapted for singing by John Rutter himself. Although ideal for funerals and All Souls Day services due to it being composed as part of the Requiem, the more general message of praise in the Sanctus makes it equally suitable for a range of other worship services. Its second keyboard part may be performed on an additional organ, piano, or harp. (Pub)

The Sanctus in d minor (BWV 239) is an accessible work for mixed chorus, strings, and keyboard. The original score contains instrumental parts for two violins, viola, and basso continuo, which can be performed by full string ensemble, keyboard, and voices. However, because the viola and bass string parts are duplicated in the keyboard part, a satisfactory performance may be accomplished by using only the two violin parts with keyboard and voices. The Six Songs of Early Canada are arranged both historically and geographically, moving across Canada from sea to sea. Together they truly represent the wealth and variety of Canada's rich folksong heritage.

Savory, Sage, Rosemary, and Thyme: This final lively and vivacious folksong came to British Columbia from England. In it a girl requests three things of her suitor before he can be her true love, and he, not to be outdone, likewise asks three things of her. (Pub)

Mary Goetze presents here a setting of hte most familiar variant of this traditional folk ballad in which two lovers make impossible requests of each other. The texture shifts from homophonic to imitative counterpoint. Brief dissonances created and resolved by stepwise progression of the accompanying voices reflect the bittersweetness of the text. Serenade to Music is sublime - one of the most stunningly beautiful musical creations of the 20th century. This choral meditation on the nature of music and its power to enrapture is a setting of text from Shakespeare's The Merchant of Venice. This tender and much-loved work was composed in 1938 in honour of Sir Henry Wood. It was written for 16 soloists and orchestra but may also be sung by four soloists and chorus, or by mixed-voice chorus. (Pub)

Composer Childs shows his flare for writing a beautiful melody. A stirring piano accompaniment completes this delightful setting.

Strong, lyrical piano lines support an arching unison melody in this David Childs setting of a text from the "Song of Solomon." Suitable as a concert feature or closer, this exquisite setting also includes an obbligato for French horn or trombone. A small a cappella section on the text, "Waters cannot quench love" appears as a halo in the middle of the work. Remarkable! (JWP)

Commissioned by the California Choral Directors Association, here is a piece that touches on the subject of depression in an artful and meaningful way. Using only a few words the notes swim through the deep waters of depression; first feeling the sensation of drowning, then remembering to swim to the surface to take a breath. This piece offers a beautiful way to address an issue that is unfortunately flourishing, especially in young circles. (Pub)

This traditional spiritual is set in an easy gospel swing with three partner-style melodies that all combine in the final chorus for an audience-pleasing finish! Super easy to learn and lots of fun to sing, it's great for choirs of all levels! (Pub)

Once the gospel swing gets started, it just never lets up in this powerful selection that is a dynamic musical statement for today's choirs. Just as a lively gospel song inspires spirit through upbeat tempos, rousing "shout" choruses and high-lying vocal tessituras, Shiru (Hebrew for "sing") accomplishes much of this same musical enthusiasm. Shiru is filled with natural syncopations, flowing harmonic lines and even the aforementioned shout chorus, all of which clearly illustrate the poetry's enthusiasm for "all the earth to sing a new song!" Rosephanye Powell's "Sicut Cervus" is a powerful and ethereal setting of a timeless text. Structured loosely in a rondo form (ABACA), the A section is reminiscent of the mysticism and otherworldly quality associated with plainchant (although it is not monodic). The A sections alternate with increasingly powerful polyphonic sections, which explore the questions raised in the psalm text. The contemplative ending offers, in its final moment, a harmonic "ray" of hope. (Pub)

In 1991 Dunstan House began its operations by publishing Sing Me to Heaven for SATB a cappella chorus. This octavo has proved enormously popular in the ensuing years and remains the best selling title in our catalog. It has been recorded frequently on CDs both commercial and private, and is now one of the most frequently performed choral works written in the twentieth century. With a text that speaks to the way singers feel about music in their lives, it has become a favorite of choirs and audiences alike. (Pub)
This sensitive work for SATB choir is so beautifully ethereal it will take your breath away. "If you would comfort me, sing me a lullaby. If you would win my heart, sing me a love song." Expansive while staying within the framework of four-part harmony, it is a conductor's choice for larger choral festivals and a superb feature for chamber vocal ensembles. (JWP)

This exuberant piece is the inaugural work in the new Beckenhorst Press Concert Series for school, community, and college choirs, edited by Dan Forrest. Commissioned by the Eastern Division of ACDA for their 2020 Conference, Marques L. A. Garrett's driving rhythmic setting of William Henry Davies' text encourages singer and listener alike to "sing out!" their songs of joy. A lyrical middle section provides opportunity for more contemplative expression, then eventually gives way to the return of overflowing joy. (Pub)

William Henry Davies' text is given a driving, rhythmic setting that encourages singer and listener alike to "sing out!" their songs of joy. The contrasting middle section is undergirded with rhythmic energy from the piano accompaniment while allowing for the choral lines to explore more contemplative lyrical phrasing before a return to the joyful texture of the beginning. A wonderful opening selection! (JWP)

Sing, my Child sets a joyful text celebrating the beauty found all around us in everyday life. Characterized by tight harmonies and a dynamic percussion line, the buoyant 7/8 metre of the opening drives the piece forward. Lush harmonies colour the hymn-like B section as the text evolves into a call for strength despite the troubles that may come. Commissioned for a mass choir of over 700 singers, this piece is well-suited for combined choir projects or as a rousing and meaningful close to a concert. (Pub)

Son de Camaguey is a Cuban folk song from which the composer takes the refrain and then frames it with kaleidoscopic patters of ostinati inspired by the song, and by Afro-Cuban music in general. (Pub)

An outstanding cross-cultural feature! With percussion as the only accompaniment (included in the octavo), this arrangement of the Cuban folk song is a vibrant, exciting salute to our Caribbean neighbors. The infectious rhythmic pulse just won't quit! (JWP)

A bright and uplifting original work with a Celtic flavor. Optional Boudhran drum part is included. (Pub)
From Jim Papoulis' "Sounds of a Better World" series, this original piece should be performed with an Irish flair that evokes a distant longing and yet is very hopeful in the present. The beginning of the song is gentle and soothing; gradually, the energy starts to increase, leading up to the refrain, "If we stand together, we will sing forever of the dreams growing in our hearts..." In "Stardust," the singers call for "a home where we can run" in memory of Ahmaud Arbery, "a home where we can pray" in memory of the victims of the Mother Emanuel shooting, "a home where we can breathe" in memory of George Floyd, and a home "to sleep and dream without fear" in memory of Breonna Taylor. When we sing, we pray twice, and it is my prayer that this piece stirs all who hear it to call for justice for the people of color taken from this world before their time and without concern for their humanity. "If we are only stardust, let your names reach to the sky above us. Like petals wafting on a breeze, we lift you up beyond our reach." (Pub)

Set to an early 20th century poem by Sara Teasdale, this SATB work speaks of peace through "the music of stillness holy and low... Stars I shall find." Lovely concert work for school or church. Unaccompanied. (Pub)

Stars I Shall Find is about the hope one has in that which is desired, yet not immediately attainable. Sara Teasdale's poem depicts stars as beacons of hope and aspiration. Dickau's lush, romantic rendering celebrates those hopes and dreams which inspire and motivate. The accompaniment is in partnership with the choir through this beautiful piece. (JWP)

For the accomplished mixed choir, here is a masterful expression of deep sadness for a lost love. Based on a text by Irish poet Thomas MacDonagh, the work flows with nostalgic imagery and haunting melody. Inspiration for the Three Motets op. 39 was a visit to the romanesque church of Trinità dei Monti. On 20 Dec 1830 Mendelssohn wrote to his parents: "The French nuns sing there, and it is wonderfully lovely. ... Now, one should know one more thing: that one is not allowed to see the singers. Therefore I have come to an unusual decision: I will compose something for their voices, which I rememer exactly..." (Pub)

I wanted to create a text that required the listener – and the singer – to define the indefinable for themselves. The explanation is in every verse of the song. The title words themselves have no meaning, other than I Made Them Up. But the essence of what I'm trying to convey is that in every human soul there is a built-in mechanism that somehow reaches out to seek The Divine... or What Is Beyond Our Understanding... or That Unnamed Inspiration That Fuels And Ignites Us. We all have experiences where we are clearly aware that Something or Someone Unseen is in contact or communication with us; "happenstances" and coincidences occur that are too amazing to be mere chance; a person, place, or thing crosses our path at the perfect moment and something powerful happens. You know the feeling. I think we all know the feeling.

Tching Tchinga Ryah is intended to shine the spotlight on that Amazing Connection; to celebrate that fact that it is very real, and that it exists without exception for everyone. And that there is incredible personal power in seeking it out, acknowledging it, getting to know it, embracing it, owning it, and learning to create with it. - David Maddux (Pub)

This special set of three short pieces is great for captivating and motivating developing choirs. The easy, repeated Latin phrases are carried by compelling contemporary music. The serenity of the Adoramus Te is contrasted with the driving power of the Gloria, while the Kyrie bears style contrasts within itself, along with rich harmonies. For school or church, sung independently or as a set, for holiday use or at any time of the year, this has many unique performance uses. (JWP)

Adapting from the writings of Helen Keller, Andrea Ramsey drafted a wonderful piece of hope for The Arkansas Tech University Concert Chorale. Ramsey has done a masterful job of echoing the text in music, ranging from haunting passages of darkness to rhythmically vibrant awakenings of understanding and light. Although destined for the concert halls of high school and college choirs, a good church choir would find it fitting in worship as well. (Pub)

An inspiring text combines with strong choral writing to create a powerful choral work for choirs of any age or size. "Together as one we can lead the way...we can find a better day, together as one." Reminiscent of "We Are The World," Together As One can be sung throughout the year." The final chorus builds to a dramatic finish with an optional treble trio. Perfect choice for graduation, too. (Pub)

A simple and joyous South African song stating "Look at the dove on that tree!" Use a soloist or a small group of singers along with improvised percussion and ululations to create an unforgettable performance. (Pub)

This South African song is believed to have originated during the difficult Apartheid years and performed as a peaceful protest song. Tuba is translated as "a dove," and the call and response texture makes reference to the story of Noah and the dove that brought an olive branch after the great flood to signify that the worst is over. The baritone soloist presents the initial melody while the choir builds the harmonic structure in rhythmic excitement. Improvised percussion and vocal ululation are encouraged! (JWP)

The title of this piece is a conglomeration of two words: the Italian word 'tutti', means 'all' or 'everyone', and the term 'tarana' designates a specific Hindustani (North Indian) musical form, whose closest Western counterpart is the 'scat' in jazz. Made up of rhythmic syllables, a tarana is the singer's chance to display agility and dexterity. While a Hindustani tarana is a solo form, I wanted to bring the tarana into an ensemble setting. With a sound at once modern and medieval, this remarkable setting of the familiar Latin text starts in unison and evokes plain chant, and gradually unfolds into wider harmonies and more modern harmonic language. Not unduly challenging in terms of vocal range, it's readily accessible to good high school mixed choirs for concerts or festivals at any time. (Pub)

Called a 'sequel' to the first "Ubi Caritas," this new work has a clear resemblance to the original work. The recurring melody line leads to a divisi treatment of the continued text. If you already like Gjeilo's skillful style, this work will be the perfect addition to your concert program! (Pub)

This sequel to Gjeilo's highly successful Ubi Caritas uses the second Latin verse, reimagining some of the thematic material of the earlier work, and is in a sense a sunnier version. While Ubi Caritas II functions as an independent work, it is also intended to be used in combination with Ubi Caritas - for example, as a prelude or postlude, yielding a sense of unity and conclusion to the performance. Excitement abounds here. Written in the style of a Ukrainian-Carpathian folk song, the driving rhythms of a vibrant folk dance are the mainstay of the piece. The lyric transliteration makes singing the short Ukrainian text easy; most the the text consists of energetic nonsense syllables. (Pub)

Recently selected as one of the honor choir pieces for the 2007 ACDA National Convention, this arrangement by Stacey Gibbs is crafted for success. Beginning quietly and unassuming, the piece quickly jumps into a contagious tempo and builds and builds to a rousing finish. (Pub)

Selected by Paul A. Smith for his excellent choral series, Bruce Rogers also selected the work for the ACDA National Honor Choir in Miami, 2007. Those are two fabulous endorsements for this outstanding arrangement. Stacey Gibbs has proven to be one of the best new arrangers of spirituals for a cappella choir. (JWP)

Commissioned by the Frederick (MD) Children's Chorus, Judy DuBose, Director, this piece was written to commemorate the Chorus' 20th anniversary. It includes solo and small-group sections that come together in a rousing, full-choir refrain. Its message is one of togetherness: "...and this choir is like a family, a place we all belong." This piece can be a great concert closer and works well for a large elementary school choir or a high school girls' ensemble. (Pub)

Here is an original choral song that will inspire a sense of family in your choir. "Music is a haven, there's comfort in a song, and this choir is like a family, a place we all belong!" An excellent choice for any time a "music" theme is appropriate, this will also help to stimulate interest in choir membership. (JWP)

Moses Hogan has once again created a memorable setting of a classic spiritual. "We Shall Walk Through the Valley" builds slowly to a rich climax and then returns to a quiet conclusion. (Pub)

Rich, velvet harmonies on the divisi choral opening give an aura of hushed stillness in this memorable setting of a classic spiritual by Moses Hogan. As the piece builds slowly to a glorious climax and then returns to a quiet conclusion, we become aware of its compelling message and the artistry that is Hogan's own. (JWP)

In the fall of 1994, while on a tour of Eastern Europe, I spent a day at the site of the Nazi concentration camp in Auchwitz, Poland. Even though I had studied the history and knew the facts, I was unprepared for the strong feelings I experienced there. I was especially moved by the pictures lining the walls of one of the former "dormitories," pictures of young women and teenage boys and girls who died there. The pictures looked like my students, young people with their lives still in front of them. But these young people had no chance to see their future. I was haunted by the picture of one especially beautiful young girl, and in the days which followed, as I thought about the things she might have enjoyed and the life which was cruelly taken from her, the words and music for "When I Am Silent" evolved. The song is dedicated to this girl and all young people everywhere whose lives are taken unjustly. Sing it for them! (Pub)

Wide Open Spaces reflects on the journeys to be found in the wide open spaces within ourselves and in the world around.

Commissioned for the 2015 National Conference of the American Choral Directors Association, Wide Open Spaces reflects on the journeys and adventures to be found in the wide open spaces within ourselves and in the world around us. The uplifting melody is passed from the upper voices to the lower voices before the piece opens out into an expansive texture with rich harmonies. A playful episode of scat singing is introduced before a resolute final chorus brings this evocative piece to a peaceful and serene close. (JWP)

It's hard to keep a straight face while singing this hilarious novelty arrangement for "serious" choirs. Sung entirely on syllables which imitate the sounds of Rossini's original orchestral percussion, brasses, and woodwinds, this one will be best when performed tongue in cheek. And from the initial fanfare to the final cadence, seasoned choirs will sound great on the full chords and percussive "Lone Ranger" themes. Awesome when performed a cappella, but equally impressive with the optional supportive piano accompaniment. (Pub)

 Rossini would be amazed by what Julie Eschliman has done with his famous piece! It's hard to keep a straight face while singing this hilarious novelty arrangement for better choirs. Sung entirely on syllables which imitate the sounds of the original orchestral score, this is tongue-in-cheek humor at its best! Awesome when performed a cappella, but equally impressive with the optional piano accompaniment, this will earn a standing ovation! Very highly recommended! (JWP)

(A Song In Akan From Ghana) Level: Length: Available for SmartMusic:
Reminding listeners of how important it is to be an active part of your community is the purpose of this song from Ghana that is sung at festivals or funerals. As sung by the Akrofor Youth Choir of Ghana, the arrangement by Abraham Adzenyah has a slow start, and an up tempo second section that is reminiscent of New Orleans funeral processions. It allows for small groups or soloists in simple divisi parts. The song has few words, but it is full of meaning. Includes notes, percussion parts, handclaps, and movement suggestions. Best with grades 9-12. (Pub)
Word Was God, The	Powell, Rosephanye		SATB	Gentry Publications / Hal Leonard	155	C-1281
Level: Medium (JWP) Length: Available for SmartMusic:
Previously available only for SSAATTBB a cappella, this new edition is SATB (no divisi) and includes a piano part that completes the harmony but almost makes you think the choir was a cappella. Excellent for church and concert! (Pub)
----- What an impact this august work will have on both choir and listeners! Compositionally, this is an excellent piece using impressive techniques that are truly captivating. The rhythmic structure develops from the superb interplay between the voices, and the layering of sound upon sound creates a musical tapestry. Written in an almost spiritual style, but definitely not a spiritual, this will make a stunning choice for larger or festival choirs! (JWP)

A traditional Irish Blessing set to a gentle, flowing melody, perfect for almost any occasion, but particularly comforting during a season of uncertainty or grief. (Pub)

"May you always remember when the shadows fall, you do not walk alone." This ethereal setting of a traditional Irish blessing is scored in a variety of voicings with piano. Deft strokes of Celtic styling within the melody weaves throughout the vocal texture. Gradually building in intensity, it transitions into the final stanza with a burst of light, aided by a key change, then slowly draws to a quiet close. (JWP)

"You Got Ta Move" is a traditional spiritual from the praise houses on the barrier islands that dot the coast of South Carolina and Georgia. The Sea Islands were (are) the home of a unique Afrobased culture whose language (a Creole dialect known as Gullah), lore, and customs retained more traditional African elements than corresponding mainland cultures due to geographic isolation. Bridges to most of these islands were not built until well into the twentieth century. The song's text refers overtly to holy dances, such as the ring shout, which were intrinsic to worship experiences on the Sea Islands. (Pub)

"When I am down, and oh, my soul, so weary, when troubles come and my heart burdened be, then I am still and wait here in the silence until you come and sit a while with me. You raise me up so I can stand on mountains..." This will inspire your students to sing their very best! (Optional parts for bass, guitar, drums and violin solo are included in the choral score.) This, the final chorus from Handel's concerto grosso Alexander's Feast, is a joyful ode to "music" from the baroque era. Alfred's definitive, authentic edition has been lowered a whole step from the original score and provides astute editorial additions in parenthesis Appropriate for contest and festival choirs, four minutes in duration.

The great success of the original work, featuring a libretto by Scottish playwright Newburgh Hamilton, encouraged Handel to make the transition from writing Italian operas to English choral works. (Pub)
